New Fulton County Elected Officials Take Office

January 2017 came in with a flurry of activity in Fulton County Government as three Fulton County Officials took their new office. Judge Jeffery L. Robinson (photo top left) was sworn in by Judge James E. Barber as Common Pleas Judge. Robinson previously served as presiding Judge over Western District Court. Robinson is assuming the bench as a result of Judge Barber's retirement in 2016.

Tracy Zuver (top right) was sworn in as Clerk of Courts by Judge Barber. Zuver was formerly with the Sheriff's Office for 27 years, where he had served as Chief Deputy since 2013. Zuver follows former Clerk Paul MacDonald.

Jon Rupp (photo bottom right) was sworn in as Commissioner by Judge Barber. Rupp has served 27 years as a Franklin Township Trustee prior to his Commissioners seat.

Did You Know?

In 1850, county commissioners chose "Ottokee" as the site for the first county courthouse. In 1851, a two-story frame building was constructed. This building housed a court and jury rooms on the top floor with county offices on the ground floor. The courthouse was later destroyed by a fire.

The new shared services complex building adjacent to the Robert Fulton Building will feature an exterior replica of that very first courthouse (see photo to the left)!
